THIRTY-FOURTH YEAR NO. 4.

CEDARVILLE, OHIO, FRIDAY, JANUARY 20, 1911.

PRICE, $1.00 A YEAR

CEDARVILLE LOST IN POPULATION.

The Herald received a dispatch from Washington D. C., Tuesday giving the population of Cedarville as 1,030 as compared with 1180, ten years ago, making a loss of 150.

Xenia is the only town in the county that has shown a gain, the census being 8,700, a gain of only ten in ten years, not a very good showing.

Jamestown is reported at 1,133 as compared with 1,205 ten years ago, and a loss of 72.

Yellow Springs will continue to be the second town in the county. The population ten years ago was 1,371 while the last census gives this village 1,360, a loss of but eleven.

Other towns in the county that showed decreases were: Spring Valley, 443; Osborn, 866; Clifton, 239; Fairfield, 292.

There is nothing startling about these figures when we take into consideration the fact that Greene County was among nearly forty that decreased in population. Only those counties that contained manufacturing cities were able to show substantial gains.

Cedarville would have made a better showing had the Holmes addition been added to the corporation along with other property as proposed some months ago by the Board of Trade.

Hospital Suit Is Filed.

Legal action has been taken against County Auditor W. L. Dean to draw a warrant for more than $8,000 as Greene county's share of the new district tuberculosis hospital located near Springfield. Greene county has declined to act with the board owing to a disagreement over the price of the hospital fund but after the transfer of the money to the fund for the new County Children's Home.

The Crows Are Missing.

Mr. J. W. Johnson, the popular jeweler, has been preparing to enter the poultry business on a more extensive basis than for mere pleasure and on Wednesday evening placed three extra fine blooded crows in the barn to remain until the next morning. However, some other "poultry fancier" wanted to stock up and removed the birds some time that night. Not content with taking the three, the men endeavored to break into the hen-house where the picking would be easier but they were unable to make an entrance. Mr. Johnson is out the crows but he has a fine description of the shoe tracks in the snow of the two men who appropriated the birds.

HIGH SCHOOL ITEMS.

The Senior Class of the High School had a spread at the home of Miss Mary Hastings last Friday night.

Last Friday evening Lebanon High School met and defeated the Cedarville High School team. This was undoubtedly a fast game but the best team won by a score of 35 to 23 in favor of Lebanon. The Lebanon boys were gentlemen in every way and played a clean game.

Saturday evening the second team of the High School under the leadership of Captain Deek expect to play and defeat the second team of the O. S. & S. O. Home, at Cedarville.

CORN SHOW FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

The second annual Boys' and Girls' Corn Show, to be held next Saturday afternoon under the auspices of the County Corn Association, will take place in the basement of the old Reformed Church. The corn Association meeting will be held the same afternoon, in the assembly room in the court house.

Dr. S. D. Fess, of Antioch college will address the meeting, and Mr. J. B. Leaming, of Waynesville, originator of the celebrated Leaming corn, will speak on the selection of seed corn. The Bath Township High School quartette will furnish music.

Death Of R. S. Jacoby.

Mr. Robert S. Jacoby died very suddenly Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock at his home near Gos Station, having suffered an attack of heart trouble. Mr. H. C. Dean and daughter, Miss Mary, were seated by him but before assistance could be rendered, life was extinct. The deceased suffered a slight attack Tuesday morning, having been subject to the same for some time.

Mr. Jacoby was a native of this county, and was 69 years old at the time of his death. He served during the Civil War, being a member of Company D, 74th O. V. I. His parents were Matthew Jacoby and Phoebe A. Jacoby, the latter being a daughter of General Robert Jackson.

For many years the deceased was the owner and operator of the Jacoby Mill along the Miami river. He was united in marriage to Miss Catherine Mary Humphreys on December 23, 1871, who still survives him. Mrs. Alexander Turnbull of this place is a sister of the deceased's widow.

The funeral takes place today from the residence. Burial at Xenia.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Margaret Jobe Boyd, passed away at 5:00 o'clock, Saturday morning, January 14th, at her home on South Main street.

This community is saddened today by the loss of Mrs. Margaret Boyd, widow of the late Hugh M. Boyd, who departed this life almost twenty years ago. The end came very quietly and peacefully and was welcomed by her in the calm, sweet manner in which she had spent her long life. She was bed fast for eleven weeks. To her children who idolized her, and to hosts of friends her death comes as a great sorrow.

Her kind gentle manner toward every one with whom she came in contact and her ready interest in everything that interested her relatives and friends, endeared her to all. Her life was a benediction, her calm gentle spirit a blessing to herself, her family and her friends. In spite of her advanced age her mind was clear and she possessed all her faculties to the last. In many ways she was a remarkable woman.

Throughout the years that followed she was ever faithful to her vows and always, even in the last years of her life was much interested in the work and progress of her church.

Mrs. Margaret Boyd was born January 6th, 1829 and was 82 years, 8 days at time of her death. She is survived by two sons, Albert T., and George E. Boyd and an adopted daughter, Mrs. Chester Owens of Xenia. Also one granddaughter, Ethel, and a daughter-in-law, Anna, who tenderly cared for her and made their home with her. There are also one brother and one sister surviving: G. F. Jobe, and Miss Lida, of near Xenia.

The funeral took place Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the residence, and burial at Woodland cemetery, Xenia.

The pall bearers were: Hugh Stormont, John Cooper, Thompson Crawford, Robert Clark, Norman Stuckey and G. H. Smith.

ANNUAL BAR- GAIN EVENT.

Rural Public Will Again Have an Opportunity to Subscribe for the Ohio State Journal at Reduced Prices.

Rural route readers will be interested in the announcement that the Ohio State Journal, Central Ohio's only morning newspaper, may again be secured during the month of January, 1911, at the reduced price of two dollars, for one year's subscription.

The terms of the offer are such that those who are supplied by rural mail delivery (or reside in towns where the Ohio State Journal is not delivered by an agent) will be credited with one year's subscription if they will remit two dollars, before midnight, January 31st. The regular price of the State Edition is three dollars a year, which means a saving of one dollar on a year's subscription. On and after February 1st the regular rate will again be in effect.

This is the Ohio State Journal's Centennial Year. In 1911 The Ohio State Journal will be 100 years old and to celebrate this event they will issue a Centennial Edition on a week day in order that rural route readers may receive a copy of this great newspaper without extra cost. The Centennial Edition will be the most complete history of Ohio ever issued in the form of a newspaper, and will be used as a historical reference by future generations. When you send $2.00 for a year's subscription, you get every week-day issue for an entire year, and you also get the great Centennial Edition, which will be issued in October, 1911.

As the Ohio State Journal is the only morning newspaper published in Columbus or Central Ohio, it has a big advantage in supplying rural route readers with the news. The farmer wants a up-to-date news service, just as much as those residing in town, and is not content with the delayed service obtained through the medium of afternoon newspapers, dated for the next day. Most of the important news occurs late in the afternoon or night, and only a morning newspaper is in position to present such news to rural route readers promptly.

Remember the special two-dollar price will not be accepted unless you subscribe in January. Subscriptions may be forwarded through this office or sent direct to the Ohio State Journal Co., Columbus, O.

ALL OF ONE NAME.

So They Had to Tag Each of the Many Tom Hazards.

Perhaps no community more carefully and frequently set forth its cattle fancy than did the early settlers of Narragansett, R. I., of whom W. B. Weeden tells in "Early Rhode Island." There were so many of one name that the bearer must have a descriptive prefix lest he be lost in a concordant multitude. Mr. Updike cites thirty-two Tom Hazards living at one time and this illustrates a few:

College Tom, because he had been at college. Bedford Tom was his son and lived at New Bedford. Bailey Tom, because he boasted how much barley he raised from an acre. Virginia Tom, because he married a girl with that name; Nailer Tom, the blacksmith; Fiddle Head Tom, an obvious resemblance; Pistol Tom, wounded by an explosion of that arm; Young Pistol Tom, his son; Short Stephen's Tom, the father law, against Long Stephen's Tom, the father tall; Tailor Tom needs no explanation.

The Georges were not so numerous, but they were distinguished as Beach Bird George, of little legs; Shoestring George, an opponent of buckles; Wig George, Dr. George and Governor George.

Names.

A Roman citizen generally had three names—a praenomen, denoting the individual; a nomen, indicating the gens or clan to which he belonged, and a cognomen, specifying the particular branch of the clan to which he belonged. Sometimes he had also the agnomen, so that his full name would run as follows: Publius Cornelius Scipio Africanus. For a long time men had but a single name, which was given them to indicate their special physical or mental peculiarities, as Plato, which signified "the man with the broad forehead."

Need Consultation. London ladies are said to be taking to the pipe. Wonder is that they have retained so long.
